SCHOOL OF ALLIED HEALTH SCIENCES

The Allied Health Sciences programme is integral to the healthcare field, complementing the medical profession through hands-on training and a solid science foundation. Our courses equip students with advanced techniques, ensuring their readiness to contribute to the continually expanding healthcare profession. As global healthcare embraces technology, improved methodologies, and ethical patient care, the demand for knowledgeable allied healthcare professionals is on the rise.

With the Government of India noting a supply-demand gap of approximately 63 lakhs for allied health professionals, our programme addresses this need. Beyond industry demands, it appeals to individuals driven by a passion for serving humanity. By instilling essential skills and a commitment to ethical patient care, our programme not only bridges the skills gap but also inspires students to make meaningful contributions to society's well-being.
